

One more reason why abortion clinics should be outlawed! How many others are out there and have yet to be discovered? Are they even being inspected?

Kermit the Fraud

It was a scene that Philadelphia's District Attorney Seth Williams says "comprehension of the English language doesn't and cannot adequately describe." From its 15-year-old "anesthetists" to blood-stained walls, Kermit Gosnell's Pennsylvania abortion facility was the site of 261 pages <http://www.phila.gov/districtattorney/PDFs/GrandJuryWomensMedical.pdf> of abortion horrors--horrors for which he is finally on trial. Yesterday, a jury sat in shocked silence as Gosnell's medical assistant recounted the pattern of cold-blooded killing. At Gosnell's request, Adrienne Morton admitted <http://www.theblace.com/stories/2013/03/19/horror-abortion-worker-admits-cutting-the-spines-of-at-least-10-babies-accuses-coworkers-of-the-same/> that she had "cut the necks of at least 10 babies after they were delivered." Weeping, she told the courtroom about a picture she had taken of a baby on her cell phone because he was bigger than any victim she had ever seen. "Gosnell later joked that the baby was so big he could have walked to the bus stop."

Prosecutors tried to recreate the third-world conditions of the "clinic" in court with old and dirty equipment—one of the many nightmares in an office where 15-year-old high school students "perform intravenous anesthesia on patients" and "fetuses frequently clogged the toilet." Gosnell, who faces the death penalty, insists that he's the victim of racial profiling—instead of what he actually is: a monster whose inner-city torture chamber is the real face of "choice" in America.

In the January 14th issue of People magazine the front cover says it all "How They Did It!" Several beautiful ladies adorn the cover which shows before and after pictures. One lady lost 137 pounds and the other lost 126 pounds. This entire magazine which is very popular in stores across America is front to back pictures of people who have all lost half of their body weight using various weight-loss programs.

Here's what struck me as I thumbed through the magazine. Had all these ladies and gentlemen being featured not lost these hundreds of pounds, the world, their families and friends would never have seen the real person. They would have only known the obese, overweight person because almost all of them were overweight since early childhood.

As I looked at the pictures I saw all these beautiful transformed persons. The real people the way the Lord intended them to look and the sheer contrast of the way they looked before. What did it take to get them to their natural look? A lot of hard work, exercise and staying with a program, not to mention a strong desire to re-claim their lost-self, a good deal of determination and commitment to what they wanted for themselves.

What's the point? My point is had all these people not been motivated by others to do something about their physical condition, none of their loved ones, family members, friends or just people who knew them would have ever been able to see the way they were intended by God to look.

This led me to another train of thought, how about rather than the physical persons, let's talk about the spiritual persons. What if our Lord would show us our spirit person as we are now, I mean right now as supposed to what we would be by a simple program of discipleship that would help us to become what He intends for us to be? How different our spirit man would look just out of simple obedience. Every church would have more than enough workers, no missions or missionaries would ever suffer lack of support. The Good News would be preached everywhere.

In closing out these thoughts, the recent bombings at the Boston Marathon as hideous as they were and how we cringed when we saw the numbers that were maimed by loss of limbs and soft tissue damage, not to mention the dead. However, there are those of us who remember because we go as a part of what we do in Life to Abortion clinics all over this great America where they are killing babies and women on a regular basis while others would walk by unaware because its being done behind closed doors by so called professional people not for the love and concern for women but for the love of money.

We bemoan the fact that there are never enough of us at the Clinic's and scores of babies that are perishing could be saved. God help us to see ourselves as we really are and stop hiding from our own flesh and blood! There are evils you only come to fully understand as you spend time where the killings go on day after day at Abortion Clinics.

The life that God has called us into is so much greater than the life that most are living and like those overweight people we can do something about it if we just make up our minds to do it!

I Am More than a Conqueror

Single, pregnant, with mounting financial difficulties, and undergoing the pressure of completing my last weeks of finals to obtain my Bachelor's Degree in Sociology led me to a life altering fork in the road. In what felt like a split second, I had to decide which path to take. The road to the right led back to a place of dependency at my family's home. I saw the daunting road that led to self sufficiency, which lacked all the securities that I had grown accustomed to throughout my life to the left at the fork. I chose self sufficiency and began my Google search for housing that I could afford; His Nesting Place was one of the results and became my home December 1, 2012.

I have been attending churches all of my life, but my spiritual growth began at His Nesting Place in partnership with Long Beach Christian Center. The truly beautiful union has catalyzed my development into a woman that seeks God's will constantly. Fortified by invaluable Christian women and surrounded by my Trinity entourage I conquer the giants that are trying to keep me from becoming the woman that God created me to be.

I wanted to do an internship in order to prepare for applying to Master's in Social Work programs. His Nesting Place has allowed me to create an internship for myself here so that I can live and work in one location; it is so convenient! Currently, I am anxiously awaiting my unborn baby girl's due date, June 8, 2013. She has changed my entire life because the knowledge of her conception got the ball rolling that eventually led me to my new home, His Nesting Place. A place where I grow spiritually, live, work, learn domesticity, parenting and scheduling skills.

Life will never be easy, but His Nesting Place constantly helps me acquire the tools that I need to be successful in life. I am finally daring to bust out of the cocoon of negative thoughts that has me bound for the majority of my life and spread the beautiful wings that God created uniquely for me.

Summer's Testimony

Summer and Kai Joseph
born April 20, 2013

My name is Summer Hoban and I am 25 years old. Before I came to live at His Nesting Place my life just "spiraled" downward. My grandmother passed away in 2004 she was more of a Christian mother to me and I was so devastated! I loved her so much!

I thought I reached my ultimate life achievement last year by graduating from Whittier College with a double major in Art and even obtaining what I thought was my "dream" job. To make a long story short my job became a "nightmare" and I became pregnant and homeless for several months. My mother even wanted me to have an abortion and rejected me because I didn't abort. My advisor found His Nesting Place and I moved in November 2012.

Since being at His Nesting Place I have "regained" my life and all of my joy back. I have control over my emotions and I am daily overcoming instead of allowing the devil to consume me. Even though my mother didn't speak to me because I was pregnant (she separated herself from me) she's now back in my life.

I am focusing on my faith in the Lord letting Him direct my path. I have gained such positive experiences with the other mothers here at His Nesting Place. We have a beautiful sisterhood and are all in one accord.

My goals in life are to be able to use Art to minister to others. I want to be a good and patient mother with understanding and Godly virtues. Recently I found an affordable studio apartment. I thank God for His Nesting Place and helping make me get back on track with the Lord!

Kyle Oscarson from Eagle Scout Troop 21

Hello, my name is Kyle Oscarson. I am involved in scouting along with my two brothers. My rank is Life Scout and I am working on Eagle Scout in Troop 21. I am a junior in high school and play on the soccer team and enjoy anything sports related.

Previous Eagle Scouts from my Troop have completed projects at His Nesting Place. I also decided to do my projects there because I wanted to help out a good organization as much as possible. Of the many projects available, creating a yard was the option I felt would provide the greatest benefit and match my skill sets. Once the yard is leveled, fertilizer applied and sod in place the lawn will be a wonderful place for everyone to enjoy the new area for relaxing and playing.

The Eagle Scout Project is designed to provide knowledge in project management, from planning and completion, as well as providing experience for younger scouts. This project is accomplished by obtaining donations from various businesses and I appreciate their generosity. We started in the middle of April and plan to complete the project the middle of May.

Please make your donation payable to His Nesting Place.
